

Hernán Mejía-Rentería, MD, PhD, is an Interventional Cardiologist currently working at Hospital Clinico San Carlos in Madrid, Spain. He graduated from the Medical School of Universidad del Valle (Colombia) and underwent specialty training in Cardiology from 2010 to 2015 at Hospital Clinico San Carlos, Madrid, Spain. Subsequently he completed his subspecialty training as Interventional Cardiologist Fellow in 2017 at the same institution and obtained the PhD grade in 2021 from Complutense University of Madrid, Spain. He has published numerous indexed scientific articles on coronary physiology, functional angiography, and intracoronary imaging techniques, and is author of chapters in different academic textbooks. At present he is Associate Editor of the X-ray Angiography section for the International Journal of Cardiovascular Imaging. His main research areas at present include coronary artery disease, functional angiography, intracoronary physiological assessment of ischemic heart disease and microcirculatory dysfunction.